THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUN-DAY SERMON.

Subject: "Heavy Weights" (Delivered at San Francisco).

TEXT: "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."—Psaims iv., 22. and He shall sustain thee."—reason

David was here taking his own medicine, if anybody had on him heavy weights, David had them, and yet out of his own experience he advises you and me as to the best way of getting rid of burdens. This is a world of burden bearing. During the past few days tidings came from across the sea of few days tidings came from across the sea of the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in the ages and in all lands the cry has been in a supplier. menym for all that is good and kind and gra-cious and beneficent. Word comes to us of a scourge sweeping off hundreds and thou-sands of people, and there is a burden of sorrow. Sorrow on the sea and sorrow on the land. Coming into the house of prayer there may be no sign of sadness or sorrow, ut where is the man who has not a confliet? Where is the soul that has not a strug-gle? And there is not a day of all the year vaca my text is not gloriously appropriate, mel there is never an audience assembled on the planet where the text is not gloriously appropriate. 'Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."

In the far East wells of water are so infrequent that when a man owns a well he has a property of very great value, and sometimes battles have been fought for the possession of one well of water, but there is well that every man owns, a deep well, a erennial well, a well of tears. If a man has of a burden on this shoulder, he has a bur-en on the other shoulder. The day I left home to look after myself nd for myself, in the wagon my father sat iriving, and he said that day something has been with me all my life farm lane, and he announced to me that I bad I been nominated for the most jurcative office in all the gift of the people of the county, and to that office I was elected, and God in that way met all my wants, and I tell you it is always safe to trust Him."

He told me that in the morning at prayers be said. "O Lord, Thou knowest we have not a mouthful of food in the house! Help me; help us?" And he started out on the reet, and a gentleman met him and said "I have been thinking of you for a good while. You know I am a flour merchant. If you won't be offended, I should like to send you a barrel of flour." He cast his burlen on the Lord, and the Lord sustained him. Now, that is the kind of religion we

In the strait of Magellan, I have been d, there is a place where, whichever way ship captain puts his ship, he finds the nd against him, and there are men who their lives have been running in the th of the wind, and which way to turn ife, we are apt to say, "He ought not to ave attempted to carry so much." Ab, that can may not be to blame at all! When a what will be its outgrowths, what will be its oots, what will be its branches. I be not believe a word of it. The vast multiude of these business men are tolling on for where. To educate their children, to put sing of protection over their households, to have something left so when they pass out of this life their wives and children will not have to go to the poorhouse—that is the way I translate this energy in the street and store -the wast majority of that energy. Grip, Gouge & Co. do not do all the business, some of us remember when the Central America was coming home from California it was wrecked. President Arthur's fathera-law was the heroic captain of that ship nd went down with most of the passengers, ome of them got off into lifeboats, but there was a young man returning from California who had a bag of gold in his hand, and as the last boat showed off from the ship that was to go down that young man shouled to a comrade in the boat "Here, John, eatch this gold. There are $3000. Take it home to my old mother; it will make her comfortble in her last days." Grip, Gouge & Co. do all the business of the world, my friend, do you say that God does re anything about your worldly busi-I tell you God knows more about it han you do. He knows all your perplexi-ies. To knows what mortgage is about to ost lose, He knows what note you cannot say; He knows what unsalable goods you on your shelves; He knows all your , from the day you took hold of the varistick down to that sale of the last yard of ribbon and the God who helped David to be king, and who helped Danfel to be prime minister, and who helped Have-deck to be a soldier will help you to dis-charge all your duties. He is going to see through. When loss comes, and you your property going, just take this book put it down by your ledger and read of rnal possessions that will come to you or Lord Jesus Christ, And who through our Lord Jesus Christ. And when your business partner betrays you, and your licends turn against you, just take the insulting letter, put it down on the table, put your libble beside the insulting letter, and then read of the friendship of Him who "atteketh closer than a brother."

A young accountant in New York City got is accounts entangled. He knew he was onest, and yet he could not make his accounts come out right, and he tolled at then iny and night until he was nearly frenzied t seemed by those books that something had on misappropriated, and he knew befor God he was bonest. The last day came. He knew if he could not that day make his ac-counts come out right he would go into disgrace and go into banishment from the busi hment. He seesthe sewing woman in the fourth story and knows how few penceshe gets for making a gar-ment, and louder than all the din and roar the city comes the voice of a sympathetic God, "(last thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee,"

Then there are a great many who have a weight of persecution and abuse upon them, sometimes society gets a grudge against a man. All his motives are misinterpreted, and all his good deeds are deprecated. With more virtue than some of the honored and applicated, he runs only against raillery and sharp criticism. When a man begins to go down, he has not only the ferce of natural cravitation, but a hundred hands to help him in the precipitation. Men are perse-tated for their virtues and their successes. Germanicus said he had just as many bitter antagonists as he had adornments. The character sometimes is so lustrous that the weak eyes of envy and jealousy cannot bear

It was their integrity that put Joseph in he pit, and Daniel in the den, and Shadrach a the fire, and sent John the Evangelist to lesolate Patmos, and Calvin to the eastle of persecution, and John Huss to the stake, persecution, and John Huss to the stake, and Korah after Moses, and Saul after David, and Herod after Christ. Be sure, if you have anything to do for church or state, and you attempt it with all your soul, the lightning will strike you.

The world always has had a cross believen two thleves for the one who comes to make it. High and holy enterprise has always have followed by abuse. The most have

Budge not one inch, though all hell wreak upon you its vengesnee, and you be made a target for deviis to shoot at. Do you not think Christ knew all about persecution? Was He not hissed at? Was He not struck on the cheek? Was He not pursued all the days of His life? Did they not expectorate upon Him? Or, to put it in Bible language, "They spit upon Him." And caunot He understand what persecution is not He understand what persecution is? "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."

Then there are others who carry great burdens of physical allments. When sudden sickness has come, and flerce choleras and malignant fevers take the castles of life by storm, we appeal to God, but in these chronic seth of the wind, and which way to turn any do not know. Some of them may be in all a sesemblage, and I address them face to use, not perfunctorily, but as one brother dus to another brother, "Cast thy burden pon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."

There are a great many men who have usiness burdens. When we see a man worsel and perplexed and annoyed in business to be a man any to say, "He ought not to ave attempted to carry so much." Ah, that an may not be to blame at all! Then there are many who carry the burden of sin. Ah, we all earry it until in the appointed way that burden is lifted. We ased no Bible to prove that the whole race is ruined. What a spectacle it would be if we sould tear off the mask of human defilement or beat a drum that would bring up the whole army of the world's transgressions deception, the fraud, and the rapine, and our right! FARM NOTES.

PEW KEEP GUINEA FOWLS. The Guinea fowl is one of the most beautiful specimeus of accurate feather marking known among gallinaceous fowls. There are two species, the black and white spotted and the pure white breed. Few keep guineas, on account of their noisy manner, which at times grows tiresome; yet chicken thieves hold them as great enemies, as they give ar alarm even at midnight, if strangers come among them.—New York Independent.

TREATMENT OF TOMATO PLANIS. The succulent vegetable, the tomatoouce despised—is now the subject of great attention. The following is good advice in the treatment of the plant: Set out plants when six inches high and hil up well until the height of a foot is reached. Train the branches apart. Throw around the plant wood asher which will at once act as a fertilizer and a poison to bugs and disease. The roots will be thrown out by the hilling process and growth forced. The hill acts as a good bed for the fruit to rest on and prevents rot .- American Agriculturist, ROTATION IN THE GARDEN. It is a good thing in the cultivation of garden not to grow the same vegetables r plants year after year on the same spot, nor even two years in succession on the same. It is liable to generate disease and to exhaust that portion of the soil it which the plant feeds or to remove the peculiar elements which it nee is. Roots, cep-feeding and shallow-feeding plants should succeed each other. A strict system of rotation is always safest. Vhere a mixed lot of vegetables is grown, the same ground may be worked or an almost indefinite length of time y changing the location of each kind rom year to year. Where cabbages, cauliflowers, radishes, turnips or other members of this same family were grown last year plant tomatoes, egg plant, peppers, etc., this year, and sweet vines next, and so on. - Cale go Times.

SIZE AND WEIGHT OF JACKS. Jacks vary in size and weight conderably. A medium size is 14 hands, to live. an 1 800 pounds; the largest are 16 hands and upward, and 1200 to 1300 pounds. A jack recently sold in Kentucky for $1300, was 164 hands, and weighed 1250 pounds. The measurements of this aninal were: 121; inches from the nose to the root of tail, 334 inches from tip to tip of ears, head 32 inches, girth 66, knee to ankle 12, around arms 261, and around stifle 33 inches. This is not so arge as one sold previously for $3250. The American jacks surpass those of any other country in all respects, but the French and Spanish blood has been used liberally in their improvement. The best of these animals are reared in Kentucky and Tennessee. Ordinary mules sell in those States for $100 to $250 per head, according to size .- New York

HOW TO MAKE A HOT BED. Where the farmer or gardener is too ar removed from business centers to buy plants cheaply of the seedsmen, a hotbed will be found convenient for starting many kinds of plants. Wolves in Russia. Wolves are specially active this winter. Even in France accidents have been reported, and Government has thought it necessary to urge the Louvetiers to exert themselves. Dreadful stories have vantage in New York City, and with the reached us from the plains of Eastern Europe, where the inhabitants are used to reckon wolves as an abiding perit of the winter season, and take no great account of the victims whose lives are lost in the accustomed manner. But it is many years since a town-even as "towns" go in Russia - was actually be sieged by these animals. Such, we are told, is the fate of Tikhvin, in the Province of Novgorod. They quarter Ma neighborhood in large packs, and make forays into the streets, seizing any living thing they can catch. The women stay indoors, and the men only go out armed to the teeth. This tale is be dismissed as a mere fable. It may probably be exaggerated by legendary incidents handed down from the time when there was no safety outside the towns. The Governor is said to have despatched a battalion of infantry, a sotnis of Cossacks, and three hundred Chasseurs to make war upon the enemy. Such a force may protect Tikhvin, but it is not be hoped that the wolves will suffer much. They will be driven off to prey upon the country districts. Those who know nothing of the matter are apt to regard it as another evidence of barbarism that these creatures should be allowed to flourish. Why does not the Government or the people exterminate them? The answer is that it cannot be

RHEUMATISM.

Cultivating the Appetite.

Altogether too much time and talk are expended on what we shall eat and what we shall drink. Dainty dishes are all very well in their way, but in many familles their preparation seems to be the chief end and aim of existence. No sooner is one meal cleared away, than plans are laid for something new and appetizing for another. What to eat forms the subject of conversation in little gatherings of all sorts. Of course, cooking schools and the gen-eral interest in culinary matters have something to do with this, but the subto show as adequately as possible the position in which the theory and practice of hygiene stand at the present day.
